

Brian Burton is a research associate at the Center of a New American Security. He is currently a graduate student at Georgetown University's Security Studies Program. He earned a B.A. in political science from Stanford University, where he also received Interdisciplinary Honors in International Security Studies and the Firestone Medal for Excellence in Undergraduate Research for his thesis entitled "Counterinsurgency Principles and U.S. Military Effectiveness in Iraq".